Benefit for Jumps

There will be a benefit dinner and raffle for Jennifer Jumps of Mound City this Saturday, November 16. It will be held at the Sportsman's Lodge in Bigelow, MO. Cocktails will be served at 6 p.m. with dinner at 7 p.m. During the dinner, winners of a three-gun raffle will be announced.

Jumps, who is battling cancer, will be receiving treatment at the MD Anderson Cancer Treatment Center in Houston, TX. Proceeds from the Saturday event will be given to Jumps and her husband, Ron, to help defray transportation and relocation expenses to Houston.

Annual meeting for Mound City Golf Course

The annual meeting of the Mound City Golf Course Association will be held on Tuesday, November 19. It will be held at The Klub in Mound City at 7 p.m. All those interested are invited to attend. The agenda includes the 2013 year review; election of new board members; 2014 budget review; and proposed rate increases.

Craig R-3 student play to premier on Nov. 16

Craig, MO, R-3 will present the fall student play, "Superhero Sanitarium," on Saturday, Nov. 16, at 6 p.m. at the school. Directed by Craig R-3 teacher Heather McCoy, "Superhero Sanitarium" features a total of nine students who make up a cast of quirky and oddball patients at a mental health facility who are investigated by a baffled hard-news journalist.

Hunter's dinner in Maitland

The Methodist Church in Maitland, MO, will be hosting a hunter's dinner on Saturday, Nov. 16, from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The menu will include vegetable soup, chili, taco soup, cheese sandwiches and pie. Free will donations are welcome.

Missouri Gov. Jay Nixon - Addresses Mound City students, faculty and staff the morning of Tuesday, Nov. 12. Standing in stalwart support behind him are Mound City Student Council members and members of the Mound City Board of Education.

Gov. Jay Nixon offers words of wisdom, support to Mound City students

Gov. Jay Nixon, in recognizing Mound City School's high academic achievement, delivered a message of commiseration to students on Tuesday, Nov. 12.

"When your mom and dad tell you school was more challenging when they were growing up... you know what, folks? They are wrong."

Nixon, who has long been a supporter of Missouri education, sympathized with students' necessary grappling with technology and high standards, but his praise did not extend only to students; he also encouraged those precocious learners to thank their teachers, the people responsible for providing them with opportunities.

"None of this would be possible without Missouri [educators]," he said.

Nixon, despite recognizing academic success on the local level, has a more global perspective on education: a good education is the foundation for a strong life, a strong living and a strong country.

"To keep our economy growing, we must continue to prepare our students to compete in today's global marketplace," Nixon said. "With strong public schools like Mound City, students in the Show-Me State are demonstrating that investing in education is an investment in our future."

During Nixon's term, math and reading scores have increased, and Missouri's high school graduation rate is now the eighth highest in the nation. Since 2009, the state has also added 266 schools to Missouri's A+ Schools program, which allows qualified students to apply for scholarships for two years of tuition and fees at any Missouri community college. Mound City recently earned an A+ designation and a 93.9 percent on the 2013 Missouri School Improvement Program (MSIP) Annual Performance Report (APR).

"We are very proud of the students, parents, teachers and staff here in Mound City for their accomplishments and commitment to education," Mound City Superintendent Ken Eaton said to the crowd of students and faculty. "Mound City is a community that supports and values our public schools and the role teachers play in our students' continued success. Education is a key principle of the foundation of character we help build every day in our classrooms."

Mound City Board of Education President Alan Yocum, who stood behind the Governor during his speech, is, like Eaton, honored by Nixon's attention to the school.

"It's nice for our school and community to get that positive recognition from our governor," he said.

It is that relationship between school and community that Nixon believes is crucial to success.

"In order to have a great school, you have to have a great community," he said. "People in this community demand excellence."

Potential lawsuit against KCP&L runs low on juice after meeting with lawyer

The general feeling of Holt County property owners after meeting with Paul Henry of boutique law firm Denlow and Henry on Monday, Nov. 4, to discuss Kansas City Power and Light's (KCP&L) Midwest Transmission Project was one of impotence: although questions were answered, attendees had no real feeling of what to do next.

"There is a lot of uncertainty," Norman Marion, one of the more vocal property owners, said. "Nobody knows where it's going to go."

At the hour-and-a-half-long meeting at the Nutrition Site in Mound City, Henry advised a group of 20 concerned residents on the ins and outs of eminent domain. Their options, it seems, are relatively limited. Because the law can work against individual landowners, those affected can band together. In order to be effective, however, the group must be large in number and usually needs political backing. Failing that, holding out on purchasing offers can usually raise the value by 10 to 20 percent. Henry also answered questions on easement, or pieces of property running parallel to the transmission line. Workers can then cross the property on the easement at any time without needing permission.

For property owners that have had full possession of their land for more than 50 years, there may be some light at the end of the tunnel with the Heritage Value Statute, Henry said. If the long-time family property, say a farm, cannot be used as a farm any longer because of the line, owners can receive 150 percent of the fair-market value. That said, KCP&L can — and likely will — allege that the surrounding land is eligible, thus a Heritage Value Statute claim would be baseless.

For property owners, the situation has taken on a David-versus-Goliath persona. As Henry pointed out, "They have condemnation backing them... They divide and conquer."

Henry also said that it is rare that companies change their planned electric lines, regardless of what the public says.

"What I say about public hearings: They're public but [the company] isn't hearing."

As it stands now, surveyors, who have a right to go onto privately owned property without providing compensation, are assessing the land. Owners are not happy, but they cannot do much at this point except make their voices heard.

"I would question if the line is necessary," said Roger Ideker, whose 1,400-acre farm is affected by the proposed line. "Their side is it is necessary."

Until landowners can come to agreeable terms with KCP&L, most, it seems, will hold the same opinion as Ideker: "I think [what KCP&L is doing] is clearly wrong."

Dr. Steve Holland - Is an award-winning scientist and a leader in his field; he is also a product of Mound City High School, class of 1975.

Engineer Steve Holland dubbed "Rock Star"

Dr. Steve Holland, a 1975 graduate of Mound City High School, has not only received a lifetime achievement award but has also had asteroid 40981 named in his honor.

"He's got a flying rock named after him now," Mound City resident Dave Holland, Steve Holland's father, said proudly.

Largely referred to as "CCD Developer Extraordinaire" — and now "Extraterrestrial Rock Star" — Holland is regarded as a pioneer in his field, engineering. Holland has devoted his career to high-performance silicon detectors for medical imaging, x-ray photon sciences, astronomy and high-energy physics, according to the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory. The Berkeley Lab also reported that Holland "led the development of thick, high resistivity p-channel [charge-coupled devices] that provide very high quantum efficiency in the near-infrared."

Holland was honored with his award and the eponymously named asteroid at the Scientific Detector Workshop in Florence, Italy, which lasted from Oct. 7 through 11. The workshop hosted more than 100 members of the scientific community from six of the world's seven continents.

Holland earned his bachelor of science degree from the University of Kansas in 1980. He later earned both his masters of science and doctorate degrees from the University of California, Berkeley, in 1983 and 1986. All of his degrees are in electrical engineering.

Holland has worked at the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory since 1987, and his research interests have focused on physics and the technology of high-resistivity silicon devices. He is the son of Kelly and Dave Holland of Mound City.

Squaw Creek Refuge boosts local economy

Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge in Mound City, MO, generated almost $3.5 million in economic benefit for Holt County and other surrounding counties in the 2011 fiscal year, a new economic analysis found. The benefit, which includes retail sales, taxes and job income, came from visitor spending tied to recreational activities on the refuge.

The refuge returned $7.13 for every $1 appropriated. The figures (in 2011 dollars) came from a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service study called Banking on Nature, which used 92 of the more than 500 national wildlife refuges for its economic sampling.

Wildlife refuges, part of the National Wildlife Refuge System, pumped $2.4 billion into the economy and supported more than 35,000 private-sector jobs in 2011. Refuges also contributed an average $4.87 in total economic output for every $1 appropriated and produced nearly $793 million in job income for local communities.

"Our National Wildlife Refuge System is the world's greatest network of lands dedicated to wildlife conservation but is also an important contributor to our economy, attracting more than 46 million visitors from around the world who support local restaurants, hotels and other businesses," said Sally Jewell, secretary of the interior. "Every dollar we invest in our Refuge System and other public lands generates huge dividends for our country."

Researchers examined visitor spending in four areas: food, lodging, transportation and other expenses, such as guide fees, land-use fees and equipment rentals. Local economies were defined as those within 50 miles of each of the 92 refuges studied.

Boy Scouts to hold food drive

Mound City's Boy Scout Troop 71 will be holding a food drive to help the local food pantry on Saturday, Nov. 16, from 10 a.m. to noon. The Troop, which is asking for non-perishable items, especially cereal, asks that donations be placed outside the home. If any items are not visible from the road, the Troop asks that the house designate itself as a donor by placing a ribbon or bow on the residence. Items may also be dropped off at the Scout Hut, located in the lot next to City Hall.

The Boy Scout Troop will also be collecting donations at Northwest Health Services in Mound City, MO, from Nov. 18 through 22 before 5 p.m.

Donors wanting to alert the Troop about donations should call Richard Foust at (660) 853-8664 or Janelle Kerns at (660) 491-3562.

The veterans at Tiffany Heights were also given flags and thank you cards at the event.

Merz Farm Equipment and AGCO join forces with Southeast Community College

AGCO, a worldwide manufacturer and distributor of agricultural equipment and infrastructure, has established a relationship with Southeast Community College (SCC) in Milford, NE. With AGCO's assistance, the college is offering an "AGCO Advantage" training program within the diesel-agricultural equipment service technology program.

The purpose of AGCO Advantage is to recruit and train entry-level technicians for employment with Merz Farm Equipment in Falls City, NE, which has been working with SCC students for the past few years in general diesel programs. At Merz, new employees will service the technologically advanced AGCO products that are sold through the Challenger, Fendt, Massey Ferguson and Valtra core brands.

The process of the program involves Merz Farm Equipment sponsoring students who will attend 21 months of technical training and graduate with an associate of applied science degree in diesel-agricultural equipment service technology. Graduates will also receive AGCO Advantage certification.

AGCO and SCC will launch the program in July 2014, though recruitment of prospective students is already underway with traditional January and July start dates.

Together, AGCO and SCC are hoping to create an academic environment conducive to training top-notch technicians. AGCO brings material, information, expertise and tooling to the table, while SCC is providing the facilities and opportunity for gifted students.

For more information, Merz

Farm Equipment General Manager Mitch Merz is available at (402) 245-2419; AGCO Advantage Program Manager Russ Goertzen can be reached at (620) 327-6343; and Diesel-Ag Equipment Service Technology Program Chair Lester Breidenstine is free at (402) 761-8328.

Mound City Kiwanis Club meets

The Mound City Kiwanis Club met at the United Methodist Church in Mound City, MO, on Wednesday, Nov. 6, with 12 members and two guests present, Jade Wright and Anthony Maupin from the Missouri Department of Conservation. Wright and Maupin presented a program on the Saturday, Oct. 19, youth waterfowl hunt. The two gave the club a certificate of appreciation for supporting the event.

In addition to the Conservation presentation, the winners of the youth art contest were announced; the winning artwork was displayed at the Waterfowlers' Hall of Fame dinner. Club members also discussed the Halloween party held at Griffith Park on Thursday, Oct. 31; two hundred seventy-nine hot dogs were consumed at the roast.

Finally, Tommye Quilty and Jim Steele put up flags in the community on Monday, Nov. 11, for Veterans' Day.

Oregon Kiwanis Club convenes

The Oregon, MO, Kiwanis Club met on Wednesday, Nov. 6, at the 275 Grill in Oregon. Bill Richards, president, opened the meeting with eight members and one guest present. After the meal, members went to the South Holt School to attend the fourth annual noon-time concert for "Kiwanis and Friends." The program was directed and accompanied by Sally Kirchhoff, vocal instructor at South Holt. The choir performed five numbers, and Makynlee Buckles, student council president, addressed several remarks to the audience regarding school spirit and community support.

The Kiwanis Club, with the support of the choir, will be singing Christmas carols at the Oregon Care Center on Wednesday, Dec. 18, at 12:30 p.m. The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 13, at the 275 Grill.

HHS awards millions in Affordable Care Act funds for Missourians

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Secretary Kathleen Sebelius announced that $6,477,704 in grant awards would go to support nine new health center sites in Missouri. The funds, made available by the Affordable Care Act, will help care for approximately 47,892 additional Missourians by establishing new health center service delivery sites. Nationwide, 236 health center programs will receive close to $150 million in grant awards to serve more than 1.25 million additional patients.

Community health centers work to improve communities' health by ensuring access to comprehensive, culturally competent and quality primary health care services.

"We remain committed to providing more Missourians with the quality patient-centered care they deserve," Sebelius said. "Missouri health centers are key partners in the implementation of the Affordable Care Act, and new health center sites will increase access to those who need it most."

Missouri health centers served 438,406 patients last year; 35 percent of those patients were uninsured. As community-based and patient-directed organizations, health centers are well positioned to be responsive to the specific health care needs of their community. They also link individuals to care through outreach and enrollment, assuring that everyone has the information and assistance they need to enroll in care through the Health Insurance Marketplace.

Currently, approximately 1,200 health centers operate more than 9,000 service delivery sites that provide care to 21 million patients in every state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands and the Pacific Basin. Since 2009, health centers have added 4 million patients and more than 35,000 full-time positions.

"We are thrilled to be able to provide additional Affordable Care Act resources to Missouri health centers to establish new sites," said Mary K. Wakefield, HSS Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) administrator. "With these new funds, health centers will provide more individuals and families in Missouri with access to high-quality, affordable health care."

Republican Club to meet in Oregon

The Holt County Republican Club will meet at the T.J. Hall Building in Oregon, MO, on Monday, November 18, at 6:30 p.m. The event will begin with a carry-in dinner. The program will be given by Holt County Presiding Commissioner Mark Sitherwood. Hosting the evening's activities will be Connie and Bill Gordon of Forest City, MO.

Tiffany Care Center introduces new lymphedema program

Tiffany Care Center's locations in northwest Missouri are now offering a lymphedema program led by Brandy Bumphrey, a certified lymphedema therapist.

Lymphedema is a swelling that typically occurs in the arms and legs, though it can also affect other parts of the body. There are two kinds of the condition: secondary lymphedema, the more common, which may occur after lymph node dissection, radiation, infection, trauma or prolonged venous stasis; and primary lymphedema, which is caused by congenital abnormalities in the lymphatic tissue and is relatively rare.

In addition to lymphedema, Bumphrey can treat chronic venous insufficiency, lipedema, post-traumatic and post-surgical swelling, inflammatory rheumatism and fibromyalgia, among others. She is also available to discuss treatment options, including therapies that may reduce potential complications such as pain, decreased mobility and non-healing wounds. Bumphrey can be reached at (660) 744-6252 or bbumphrey@tcc4care.com Doors open at 6 p.m., and the program will last from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The event is free, and refreshments will be provided.

Runzas

By Julia Gilland

My recipe is take one pound of hamburger, add water to cover, bring to a boil and cook a few minutes until it changes color.

Cook half a head of cabbage and two onions, chopped finely, in water until tender. Drain hamburger, cabbage and onion really good. Mix all together.

Make bread dough. Roll out fairly thin and cut into rectangular pieces, four inches long by three inches wide. Season the cabbage, onion and hamburger with salt and pepper to taste. Add some garlic powder (if you like garlic) to give it a good flavor.

Place about 3-4 tablespoons of the mixture on the dough. Roll up like a jelly roll and crimp the ends together. Bake in a 350 degree oven until done and nicely browned.

Good corn yields in 2013 despite roller coaster weather

Missouri corn yields were surprisingly good overall, despite late planting and a lack of rain during critical growing times, University of Missouri (MU) Extension corn specialist Brent Myers reported.

“The corn pulled through and did really well due in part to cooler conditions in the summer,” Myers said.

According to the Nov. 4 United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) crop report, 82 percent of the state’s corn crop had been harvested as farmers had been stepping up harvest work to get crops out before the onset of wet conditions.

Wet fields in the spring pushed planting to mid-June in some areas, and some late-planted corn did not pollinate as well as early corn, resulting in marked yield variances. Some producers, however, claim the late-planted corn was some of their best.

“This [assertion] indicates how sensitive corn can be to conditions at pollination,” Myers said. “Some later-planted corn didn’t pollinate well and was developing in the drought period. In the northeast region, there was some 100-bushel corn but lots of really good yields.”

Studies by MU Extension specialist Bill Wiebold show that yields can drop by as much as 40 percent if corn is not planted by June 19. This trend is clear in southwestern Missouri where record rains forced widespread replanting. The harvest is still underway in that region, and yields are expected to be lower than normal. An Oct. 28 USDA field crops’ report noted that statewide harvest progress, however, is right on track with historical averages.

Irrigated cornfields also produced significantly higher yields, Myers said. Yields from those cornfields in the Missouri bootheel averaged 250 bushels per acre, and irrigated corn in claypan fields averaged 238 bushels per acre, significantly higher than non-irrigated trip.

yields of the 150 to 170 bushels per acre seen in MU trials. Yields typically average around 125 bushels per acre for northeastern Missouri.

Northwestern Missouri producers reported average yields of 200 bushels per acre. This number also includes reports from the Albany, MO, area, which saw snowfall days after corn had been planted. Damage during seed imbibition can reduce the corn stand and make it more susceptible to pathogens; corn yields from one snow-impacted study averaged 104 bushels per acre.

According to Myers, the moisture content of this year’s corn measures within normal ranges. Low moisture content means less drying time and reduced expenses for corn producers.

The USDA also reported that 3.45 million acres were planted with corn. Missouri ranks twelfth in the nation in corn production.

“On a Mission” meal

“On a Mission 2014” will be having a monthly fundraiser luncheon at the First Christian Church in Mound City, MO, on Sunday, Nov. 17, following the church service. The meal will include Thanksgiving dishes. Free will donations will be accepted, and any money received will be used for a summer 2014 mission trip.

Area student accepted to Culver-Stockton College

Maddison Clements, a student at Jefferson C-123 High School in Conception Junction, MO, has been accepted to Culver-Stockton College (C-SC) for enrollment in the fall 2014 semester. Along with acceptance to the school, Clements has been awarded the Wildcat Scholarship, a four-year award. Clements’ anticipated major is nursing.

By attending Culver-Stockton, Clements will benefit from the C-SC Advantage, which includes research, professional experience, leadership opportunities, service learning, simulations, creative expression and travel studies.

Culver-Stockton College, located in Canton, MO, is a four-year residential institution in affiliation with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). C-SC specializes in experiential education and is one of only two colleges in the nation to offer the 12/3 semester calendar where the typical 15-week semester is divided into two terms, a 12-week term and a 3-week term.

What do you remember?

The Holt County Historical Society is looking for answers to these questions that have been submitted by researchers.

Published in 1984 by the Missouri Methodist Historical Society. A handwritten note on the back of the undated old Holt County Historical Society photo says it was “Compliments of a former Mound City boy, Frank L. Chambers, Eugene OR, who left in 1884”. The Sesquicentennial Committee would appreciate any history...photos, clippings, or family documents. If you could add to the 150th celebration call the church office, 660-442-3970, or the Genealogy Center.

A QUESTION?

The 1895 map of Mound City has a "M.E. Church South" located on the east side of Nebraska Street between Gillis and Grand and the "M.E. Church and M.E. Parsonage" at the corner of 7th and Mound. Can anyone fill in that history for the society?

WHERE WAS LACKEY'S FERRY?

The researcher from Michigan who visited in Holt and Atchison counties a few weeks ago wrote he is still working on the early route of the 1843 Mormon Battalion that traveled from Council Bluffs, IA, through Holt County, to Fort Leavenworth, KS. He has found a journal that specifies one group crossed the Nodaway River at "Lackey's Ferry". He also has found the Missouri authorization for a bridge to be built at "Lackey's Ferry". Who knows where it was located?

If anyone has any information about any of these items please call 660-442-5949.

This Week’s History

From the Mound City News archives

50 Years Ago - 1963

• The new swimming pool at Big Lake is rapidly taking shape. The new swimming pool will be 80x40 feet in size, and a wading pool and bath house will be nearby.

• Trophies, certificates, or pins were awarded to nearly 200 Holt County 4-H club members at their annual recognition party at the Oregon high school.

• The Oregon Pirates defeated the Mound City Panthers by a score of 6 to 0. This was the final football game of the season for both teams, resulting in a tie for the two squads for second place honors in the 275 Conference. Fairfax earned first place in the conference.

• Twice recently, students of Mound City public schools enjoyed venison, which was donated by the Missouri Conservation Commission. Two of the animals had been killed recently on highways near Mound City, which accounts for the superb meat selection to the school pupils.

• The Craig Hornets ended their football season with a 1-6-1 record. Until major injuries, Craig was a title contender.

25 Years Ago - 1988

• Election results included the race for Holt County Sheriff which was a repeat of the 1984 race when incumbent Melvin Hayzlett lost to Bernie Delaney. This year the race was the same, but wth a different outcome as Hayzlett out-pollled Delaney to regain the position. The closest race of the election pitted former Commissioner Harold “Curly” Eller against Terry Eaton for the office of Second District Commissioner. Eaton collected 829 votes to Eller’s 804. Approximately 75 percent of the Holt County registered voters cast ballots in the election.

• Fifteen years ago Franklin George opened the self-service gas and convenience store on the corner of 7th and State streets. An update took place with around 3,000 square feet of canopy being erected over the driveway. Another step was having his son, Shane, join the firm as assistant manager.

• The Mound City City Council decided that the Arts Council could lease the State Theater building for $1 per year and would have the option to purchase after the first or second 5-year lease.

10 Years Ago - 2003

• First year Craig physical education teacher, Charley Burch, was honored at the school’s Veterans’ Day observance. Charley was called for active duty with the National Guard and was set to leave within weeks.

• Chuck Loucks, a former Mound City resident, completed work on his new CD, “Yellow Gulch Saloon”.

• Mound City aldermen voted to amend the city’s Tax Increment Financing (TIF) District to include the former Hardee’s property, now leased by McDonald’s Corp. McDonald’s had applied for a TIF project to renovate or replace the building.

The Maitland, MO, Head Start group - Experienced the life cycle of a pumpkin as well as where pumpkins come from during Nodaway-Holt FCCLA member, Darcie Gallagher's STAR event project presentation, October 10-22. She emphasized child development skills to organize and plan age appropriate activities during her time there.

Local teen helps through child development

Senior Nodaway-Holt Family, Career, and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) member, Darcie Gallagher, presented information to the students at Maitland, MO, Head Start for her STAR Event Project on October 10th - 22nd.

Gallagher used a fall pumpkin theme to teach children about the life cycle of the pumpkin as well as where pumpkins come from. She emphasized child development skills to organize and plan age appropriate activities for everyone involved. Gallagher visited the Head Start classroom multiple times. She read stories, did craft projects, and discussed basic information about pumpkins.

One activity included taking the children on a field trip to Gallagher's very own pumpkin patch. Children were allowed to see what colors pumpkins were, how they grow, do a sorting activity, and see what the inside of a pumpkin looks like. Each child also got to choose their very own pumpkin to take home. Gallagher wrapped up her time with the children by helping them create their very own coloring book entitled, "What I Learned at the Pumpkin Patch."

Maitland, MO, Head Start students - Enjoyed a field trip to Darcie Gallagher's very own pumpkin patch. Each child was allowed to choose one pumpkin to take home with them.

Varicose vein treatment now at Community Hospital-Fairfax

Community Hospital-Fairfax (CH-F) is now offering a non-surgical treatment for varicose veins. Those interested may attend an informational meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 10 a.m. at the CH-F conference room in Fairfax, MO.

Varicose veins can lead to chronic venous insufficiency, a disease that is cosmetically unappealing and could have potentially serious long-term complications if left untreated. Pregnancy, age and genetics are the most likely causes of the disease. Chronic venous insufficiency is progressive and can lead to more serious issues like chronic cellulitis, venous ulcers or variceal hemorrhage.

Treatments, however, have advanced over the years, and CH-F can now use VenaCure ELVT. The procedure, provided by Dr. Douglas Niemann, requires local anesthesia and takes only 45 to 60 minutes. Using the VenaCure surgical laser, Niemann closes the vein from the inside, thus redirecting blood to healthy veins. The varicose vein and any associated symptoms of chronic venous insufficiency should disappear. Walking shortly after the procedure is encouraged, and normal activities can be resumed immediately.

Mound City elementary students all eyes at vision screening

As young students in groups of four trotted in and out of Holt County nurse Susan Lentz's office at Mound City R-2 on Monday, Nov. 11, eye technician Sarah Greco invited each to sit on a chair and look into her Plusoptix vision screener, a machine that measures, among other eye issues, near and farsightedness and astigmatism.

"Look at the smiley face," Lentz instructed students. "It's going to make a noise."

After a series of beeps and whirs, the Plusoptix displays whether a student passed or should be referred for future testing.

"Do you want a stamp?" Greco asked after putting down the machine.

For each student that shyly nodded yes, Greco pressed a lion-shaped stamp on his or her hand.

The lion, representative of Missouri Lions Eye Research Foundation, was not the only benefit students received; the screenings were a free service available not only to Holt County elementary students with signed permission slips but also to residents wanting to screen their children.

The trick, according to Greco and Lentz, is to get children screened early.

"We've caught [vision issues] in several kids, which is very nice," Lentz said. "Catching lazy eye, [for example] is a big deal. If you catch it at age two or three, it's a lot easier to correct."

Greco agreed: "We try to get it before they start school."

The machine helps, too, Greco said, making the process easier than in the past.

"There are no eye charts," she pointed out. "[The Plusoptix] picks up cataracts and amblyopia, which is when one eye is stronger than the other; it can also cause lazy eye."

According to Greco, approximately five percent of the students screened are referred to an eye doctor for follow-up exams. Of those, about half actually wind up with glasses.

Overall, however, the process is painless and relatively easy, Greco says.

"The students are always surprised at how fast and easy it is... They think [the machine] is really impressive."

Hunters check 5,929 turkeys in fall firearms season

Hunters checked 5,929 turkeys during Missouri's 2013 fall firearms turkey season, which lasted from Oct. 1 through 31. The low haul continued a long-term decline in participation in the fall hunt.

The top harvest counties included Greene, with 208 turkeys checked, Webster with 158 and Laclede with 152. Statewide, however, harvest numbers were down. The decline was the greatest in the St. Louis, MO (50 percent), central (41 percent) and Kansas City (32 percent) regions. Northeastern Missouri regions were the least affected with a decrease of only 11 percent from 2012.

Due to the decline, 2013 marks the third-smallest fall firearms turkey harvest on record. The smallest occurred in 1978 when hunters checked only 4,389 turkeys during the firearms season. The fall harvest reached its peak, it seems, in 1987 when numbers reached 28,139. Checked turkey numbers have declined steadily since then.

A parallel decline in sales of fall firearms turkey hunting permits could hint at waning hunter interest as the cause for the rapid decline in harvest numbers. Fall archery turkey harvest numbers have also steadily increased, which may account for the drop in firearms numbers. Archers checked 108 turkeys in 1978 and 3,217 last year.

"Fall turkey hunting had a brief period of increasing popularity early on," Jason Isabelle, resource scientist with the Missouri Department of Conservation, said. "Over time, I think that fall turkey hunters have gradually been drawn away to archery deer hunting and all the other hunting opportunities available in October. Fewer and fewer people have hunted turkeys in the fall each year, even throughout the late 1980s and 1990s when the state's turkey flock was growing rapidly and when our spring harvest continued to increase."

The Conservation Department sold 14,898 fall firearms turkey permits this year, a 9 percent decrease from 2012 and well below the 115,020 permits sold for this year's spring season. Isabelle said the decrease could be anticipated because of a recent decline in turkey nesting success.

"For the last several years, fall firearms turkey permit sales have tended to track the hatch," he said. "When hunters see fewer birds in the woods, they generally buy fewer permits."

Of the turkeys checked in 2013, 53 percent were hatched earlier in the year, a statistic in line with the juvenile-adult ratios of other years. Additionally, the current level of the fall harvest has no effect on the potential for wild turkey population growth.

Board of aldermen takes care of business

The Mound City Board of Aldermen met on Tuesday, Nov. 5, to wrap up old business and finalize current issues, primarily those involving water rates and traffic speeds.

Ordinance #1230, formerly known as Bill No. 11-5-2013 (1), was approved. The ordinance “establish[ed] user charge rates for water service,” an issue previously discussed as water rates for Mound City were due to increase.

The Board also amended Bill No. 11-5-2013 (2) to include excessive acceleration as a traffic code violation. The amendment passed unanimously.

In other business, the Board examined city sidewalk regulations. According to Missouri Intergovernmental Risk Management Association (MIRMA), a pathway of 60 inches is to be maintained at all times, and those businesses that place furniture on the walkways must provide liability insurance and follow guidelines. City Attorney Brian Tubbs will give advice on this issue, and once it has been approved, the Board will send notification letters to all State Street businesses.

Each department, following the conclusion of sidewalk business, reported on updates and ongoing matters. The police department, with the Board’s approval, has appointed two part-time reserve officers, Blaine Kennedy, from the Highland, KS, police department, and Mike Dougherty, Kickapoo police chief. The sewer department will construct a sewer main in the Byron Addition as the current main was not placed entirely within the street right-of-way or platted utility easements. Plans, however, are not yet confirmed. The Mound City Development Corporation also submitted maps of a replat of Byron Addition Plat 2; the replat is now headed to the Planning Commission for review and recommendation. Tubbs reviewed the plated storm sewer easement in Plat 2, as well; legal descriptions for the sewer are needed in order to draft a written easement across the subdivision. The water department informed the Board of the testing of the generator at the water plant and also let the Board know that Century-Link will be running fiber optic through Mound City and down Route E south of town. The street department is planning to make needed adjustments to the office. Nauman Construction, who is already contracted to update the office, has increased its price by $1,550, which was approved by the Board. The Board also approved a $5,675 bid by Johnson Heating and Cooling to furnish and install heaters for the shop and new office. Additionally, the park and pool department reported that Mound City School will be using three to four picnic tables from Griffith Park on Friday, Nov. 8, for activities at the school football field, and the board approved a payment of $350 to Bob Heck for custom farming the seven acres of land adjacent to the lagoon. A receipt of $4,762 was reported for the sale of the crop on these acres.

Additionally, existing administrative issues were resolved. Special tax bills for the nuisance abatement at 1601 Nebraska, 114 Hickory and 402 E. Gillis were approved, and Tubbs advised that, regarding the Covell/Herr property at 601 Railroad St., the city would be better off not paying the delinquent taxes to the Holt County Collector as the city would probably not be compensated for the delinquent city taxes on the property. The Board also voted to continue with the December renewal of employees’ current health care insurance program, though premiums will increase 13.3 percent. The Board also voted to opt out of MIRMA’s Mesothelioma liability. All financial reports were reviewed and discussed. Finally, Tiffany Heights will return the remote warning device that is activated with the tornado sirens. A new location will be discussed.

Finally, the Board will consider additional options for the construction of a desk for the City Clerk and Collector in the Council Room, and employees will have both Thanksgiving and the day after Thanksgiving off. City Hall will be closed both of those days. City Clerk Smith’s accumulated two weeks of vacation was approved. The annual council/employee Christmas dinner was tentatively scheduled for Dec. 14.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Dec. 5, at 5:30 p.m. Those present included Mayor Chris Krueger, City Clerk Patsy Smith, Collector Annissa Brandon, Water Superintendent Randy Crowley, Police Chief John Panning, Officer Craig Buckles, Blaine Kennedy, City Attorney Brian Tubbs, and aldermen Jason Biermann, Robert Heck, Kristine Gibson and Jim Krueger.

Craig R-3 devotes assembly to Veterans’ Day

Mound City, MO, resident and veteran Chief Master Sergeant Randy Miller of the Air Force - Speaks about the importance of freedom and thanks at Craig, MO, R-3 on Monday, Nov. 11. Sandwiching Miller’s heartwarming speech were student-led renditions of the Pledge of Allegiance, the national anthem, and poetry readings. Miller urged students to remember that “we live in a free nation; don’t ever forget that.”

Youngsters check 18,676 deer during early hunt

Expert attributes the strong harvest to favorable weather and growing awareness of the youth portions of firearms deer season

Fair weather helped participants in the early youth portion of Missouri’s firearms deer season post the second-largest harvest on record.

Hunters aged 6 through 15 checked 18,676 deer during the Nov. 2 and 3 hunt, the Missouri Department of Conservation reported. Top counties for the early youth hunt were Franklin with 424 deer checked, Osage with 421 and Howell with 409. In Holt County, however, deer numbers, according to Conservation Agent Jade Wright, were down slightly compared to last year, but still strong. Youth hunters harvested a total of 63 deer, including 48 antlered bucks and 15 antlerless deer; last year’s harvest counted 87 deer.

Emily Flinn, the resource scientist in charge of deer management for the Missouri Department of Conservation, said two factors — weather and increasing participation — contributed to the strong harvest.

“We had great weather for this year’s early youth hunt,” Flinn said. “The temperatures were cool but not cold, and it didn’t rain. Hunters tend to stay in the woods longer under those conditions.”

Equally important, said Flinn, is the long-term growth of participation. Traditions like those associated with the November firearms deer season take time to develop. Now in its thirteenth year, the youth season is developing its own traditions as experienced hunters discover the rewards of mentoring youth during a season set aside specifically for that purpose. When Missouri held its first youth hunt in 2001, the Show-Me state had approximately 40,000 deer hunters under the age of 16. By 2012 that number reached more than 70,000.

Wright agreed. “...The kids had a great weekend to be afield,” he wrote in a letter to the Mound City News. “Mild weather conditions made it a great opportunity to get young hunters into the woods.”

Youth seasons are one facet of ongoing efforts to recruit new hunters. The Conservation Department also uses low-cost permits, partnerships with private mentoring programs, an Apprentice Hunter Authorization and outdoor-skills training to encourage Missourians to take up hunting.

Missouri’s $17 Resident Firearms Any-Deer Permit is a bargain compared to the average $46.63 for equivalent privileges in surrounding states, according to the Conservation Department. Missouri also charges only $8.50 for a resident any-deer permit for hunters under age 16. Resident youths pay just $3.50 for antlerless-deer permits.

The Apprentice Hunter Authorization costs $10 per year and allows those 16 years of age and older to buy hunting permits for two years without having to complete hunter-education training first. Authorization users must buy the appropriate hunting permits and must hunt in the immediate presence of a properly licensed hunter aged 18 years or older who is hunter-education certified or exempt from the hunter-education requirement due to age.

Missouri’s hunting tradition is essential to managing the state’s deer herd. It also contributes substantially to the state’s economy. Deer hunters spend approximately $700 million on their sport annually in Missouri, generating $1.1 billion in business activity and supporting 11,000 jobs.

The November portion of firearms deer season is from Nov. 16 to 26. This portion normally accounts for approximately 80 percent of the state’s firearms deer harvest.

To make the hunting experience a special one for young hunters, an official First Deer Certificate, complete with congratulations and Conservation Department Director Robert L. Ziehlmer’s signature, is available at mdc.mo.gov/node/10469.

Mound City knocks out Nodaway-Holt

The Mound City Junior High Panthers bested the Nodaway-Holt Trojans in basketball action in Mound City, MO, on Thursday, Nov. 7. The girls’ team won 30-19, while the boys’ team took Nodaway-Holt 32-26.

“This was a very competitive game,” Mound City boys’ coach Ryan Osburn said. “We played a great third quarter to build a decent lead. Nodaway-Holt fought back in the fourth quarter to make the game very close. We moved the ball well all game on offense but didn’t have a high shooting percentage.”

Junior high Panthers split with Blue Jays

The Mound City Junior High Panthers were split against the Rock Port Blue Jays on Monday, Nov. 4, in Rock Port, MO. The Mound City girls’ team won 36-21, but the boys’ team lost 45-14.

“We struggled from start to finish in this game,” said Ryan Osburn, coach for the Mound City boys’ team. “The score doesn’t reflect our effort — I thought we tried hard on defense, but we couldn’t get shots to fall in the first half.”

Mound City takes on North Nodaway

The Mound City Panthers hosted North Nodaway for junior high basketball action on Thursday, Oct. 31, in Mound City, MO. The girls’ team lost 43-17, but the boys’ team was victorious with a score of 32-20.

“We struggled in this game finding offensive consistency,” Mound City boys’ team coach Ryan Osburn said. “In the first half, we settled for way too many outside shots. Our defense was solid through the game, [and] we built a big lead in the third quarter by holding North Nodaway [to only three points].”

Mound City junior high students make honor choir

Mound City seventh and eighth grade choral students - First had to audition for the Honor Choir before being able to participate in the concert on Saturday, Nov. 9. As part of the process, singers had to go through a vocal screening and write a short essay showing their desire and aptitude to be part of the ensemble. Becky Reinig, Mound City music teacher, also looked at each student’s grades and behavior record. The Honor Choir students are, from left to right, Gracie Caton, Cassidy Wennihan, Bailey Hayworth, Destiny Grover, Gracie Szesny and Desiree Hufford. Not pictured: Josiah Foust.

Community Hospital-Fairfax (CH-F) will be visiting Mound City High School on Wednesday, Nov. 20, to continue the “Check it at the door” program, which promotes healthy eating and lifestyle choices.

The program was implemented by CH-F staff after they took note of the health conditions present in the adult populations of Atchison and Holt counties. In order to remedy any bad habits, “Check it at the door” offers health screenings for blood pressure, blood sugar, cholesterol and body composition and sets goals for students to encourage them to lead a more heart-healthy life.

The program, this year, is being offered to incoming freshmen. Students that were involved in last year’s screening may also participate, and those who are screened in November and return in the spring are eligible for a free ticket to Schlitterbahn Water Park and may have their names added to a drawing for a $100 prize.

Teens must have parental permission to participate, and forms may be returned at the school.

Trojans end injury plagued season

The Nodaway-Holt Trojans travelled to Stanberry, MO, on Friday, November 8, for the second round of the Missouri 8-man football playoffs. Stanberry has been a force around the league this season and remains undefeated after topping the Trojans 67-28. The loss for Nodaway-Holt puts an end to a season that has been full of injuries. The younger players got some very good experience to carry on to next season. Nodaway-Holt ended its season with an overall record of 5 wins and 6 losses and a 275 Conference record of 4 wins and 5 losses.

The Missouri 8-man top ranked Stanberry squad played a good game. “Stanberry was able to control the line of scrimmage and broke off 5 or 6 touchdowns in a hurry. It’s hard to beat a quality team like Stanberry when we started off down 20-30 points. We had trouble getting anything going on offense because Stanberry’s defense was just so dominant. I wish Coach Collins and the rest of the Stanberry team the best of luck the rest of the season,” Nodaway-Holt Coach Josh Petersen commented.

“With injuries to our upperclassmen, I thought our younger players did a great job filling in for them. It was nice to see our team establish a ground game the past few weeks. We are a very young team and it was nice to get some experience for next year,” Petersen commented. “Our seniors did a great job this year. It was unfortunate that injuries plagued their last season, but it has been fun coaching this bunch of players,” Petersen added.

Nodaway-Holt defensive players Dakota Leeper and Brice Shamberger - Tackle the Stanberry ball carrier. Nodaway-Holt’s season ended on Friday, November 8, after the loss to a very tough Stanberry squad.

FCCLA members trick-or-treat for non-perishables

Nodaway-Holt FCCLA members show off their collection - Of non-perishable items on Tuesday, Oct. 29. Members dressed up in costume and went house to house asking for canned items in Graham, MO, and Maitland, MO. Members competed to see who could collect the most cans within one hour, and the chapter came out with 450 items, which will be donated to the local food pantry.

training in Osage Beach, MO

Students from Nodaway-Holt High School in Graham, MO, attended the 2013 Missouri Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) Fall Leadership Conference in Osage Beach, MO, from Oct. 27 through 28. More than 1,000 FCCLA members, advisors and chaperones attended the conference.

FCCLA students chose one of three tracks to follow at the conference: the Take AIM (Active and Involved Members) training, which introduced new members to FCCLA’s leadership development opportunities and programs; the Leadership Unlimited training, which helped FCCLA officers strengthen their skills in chapter management, public speaking and conflict resolution; and the Chapters in Action training, which provided teams of chapter members with ways to plan and implement three national FCCLA programs — Community Service, Families Acting for Community Traffic Safety (F.A.C.T.S.) and STOP the Violence — at the local level. Speakers focused on peer education efforts and resources available to chapters for local projects.

“All of the members that attended came back with some great project ideas that the chapter hopes to implement soon,” Heather Wilmes, family and consumer science teacher at Nodaway-Holt, said.

FCCLA is unique among youth organizations because its programs are planned and run by members, and it is the only career and technical student organization with family as its central focus. For more information, visit www.mofccla.org.

Nodaway-Holt students honor veterans

Nodaway-Holt students in Maitland, MO, honor the nation's veterans, including graduate John Poppa, front left - On Friday, Nov. 8. The program, led by math teacher Stacey Calfee, included flag raisings by Troop 68 of the Boy Scouts, an educational question-and-answer session with elementary students, relevant readings and speeches by Holt County veterans. Calfee also displayed pictures of elementary students' family members who are veterans, and she arranged an address pool whereby students write thank you letters to those members. The letters will be sent out randomly.

Billie Banks, the postmistress in Oregon, MO, launched "Help Oregon Go Pink for the Cure" three years ago, and her fundraising efforts for breast cancer awareness have paid off: this year, Banks was able to raise $400 for the Holt County Cancer Fund (HCCF).

Each year in October (Breast Cancer Awareness Month), Banks sets out pink cans at Oregon businesses so donors can contribute to the HCCF. She also distributes pink ribbons and places corn stalks tied with pink ribbon on lampposts on Main Street. Additionally, she places ads and articles in the local paper, The Oregon Times Observer, to promote a Postal Service breast cancer awareness stamp.

The stamp, "as of October 2012...has raised over $76.3 million for breast cancer research," according to the United States Postal Service. "By law, 70 percent of the net amount raised is given to the National Institutes of Health, and 30 percent is given to the Medical Research Program at the Department of Defense."

Banks was pleased to report that her efforts were beneficial to all involved. Breast cancer awareness stamps were purchased, the HCCF received donations, women were reminded to get mammograms and check-ups, and the community was informed on the seriousness of breast cancer.

The National Cancer Institutes estimates that there will be 234,580 new cases of breast cancer in the U.S. alone.

We would like to thank our friends for their sympathy and kindness shown to us during Chuck's illness and since his passing. Your kind words have helped sustain us in this difficult time, as has the knowledge that Chuck touched so many lives. We would like to send a special thanks to Pastor Paul Grant; Tammy Davis; members of the First Christian Church of Mound City; American Legion Post #121; and members of the Oregon Masonic Lodge #139 AF&AM for all that you did to honor Chuck. He was a caring and loving husband, father, grandfather, uncle, brother-in-law and friend, and he will be greatly missed. Thank you again for your thoughtfulness.

Sincerely,
The Family of Chuck Gillis

Another state cross country medal for Mound City's Kendey Eaton

Lady Panthers place 11th as a team

Mound City's Kendey Eaton earned her second state cross country medal last Saturday, November 9, at the Oak Hills Golf Center course in Jefferson City, MO. Eaton, who is a sophomore at Mound City High School, placed eighth with a time of 21:04.45. Last year, she placed seventh with a time of 21:59. Miranda Hill, senior from Russellville, MO, placed first at the state meet with a time of 20:15.95 in the field of 160 runners.

Kendey Eaton had this to say about her second consecutive state cross country medal showing, "The course in Jefferson City is very difficult, although all of the 160 girls participating seem to make everyone's times improve, or at least that was the case for my teammates and me. I ran almost a minute faster than my time last year due, in part, to our team's willingness to practice at 6:15 a.m. every morning (because many of us played volleyball as well as ran cross country). I got a lot more practice time and meets in to train for state this year. The competition of this year's Class 1 girls was overall faster paced than last year. I am so proud of the Mound City team's accomplishments this year. With all the glory going to God, it was a successful year for Mound City Cross Country."

The Mound City Lady Panthers, after finishing the district competition in second place as a team, qualified for the state meet.

The team placed 11th at the state event with a total time of 2:00:13.23, averaging 24:02.65 per runner. Russellville claimed the state team championship with a total time of 1:48:23.94, averaging 21:40.79 per runner.

Other places and times for the Mound City long distance runners at the state meet are: Mae Sanders, sophomore, 100th place, 24:32.88; Adrienne Messer, freshman, 101st place, 24:33.38; Joeigh Eaton, freshman, 108th place, 24:40.61; Lily Grant, senior, 136th place, 25:21.91; Janine Bludau, senior, 142nd place, 25:49.08; and Jessica Johnson, sophomore, 143rd place, 25:50.12. Atchison County schools had runners from Tarkio, MO, and Rock Port, MO, in the state meet. Their places and times include: Destiny Klosek, sophomore at Tarkio, 56th place, 23:20.66; Blair Broermann, sophomore at Tarkio, 102nd place, 24:36.09; and Hannah Mace, freshman from Rock Port, 118th place, 24:58.20.

According to Mound City Coach Ken Eaton, all but one of the Mound City competitors ran their personal best times at the state meet. The one who did not run her fastest time was due to an injury, however, her state time, even with the injury, was within a few seconds of her fastest time. "I am extremely proud of the work these girls put into cross country this year. To be able to qualify as a team and compete at such a high level says a lot for the character of these young ladies. I believe Kendey's effort was more focused this year because she had the experience from last year. The atmosphere at the state meet is intimidating due to the sheer number of people, not only running (160), but the over 5,000 loud fans that are right there on the course with the runners is awesome," said Coach Eaton.

State offices closed Friday after Thanksgiving

All state offices will be closed on Friday, Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving, according to an executive order issued by Missouri Gov. Jay Nixon.

"As our efforts to make government more efficient and effective continue to pay dividends for our budget and our economy, I am pleased to be able to provide state employees with the day off on the Friday after Thanksgiving," Gov. Nixon said. "Public safety and other essential services and facilities will continue their normal operations."

BID PROCEDURE: The properties will be offered in 4 individual tracts. Tracts 1-4 will be offered individually, in combination, or as a total 533 Acre unit. Bid on any single tract, any combination of tracts or the entire property. There will be open bidding on all tracts and combination during the auction as determined by the auctioneer. The property will be sold in the manner resulting in the highest total sale price. Your bidding is not contingent upon financing, so be sure you have arranged financing and are capable of paying cash upon closing.

TERMS: Successful bidders will be required to sign a contract for the purchase of the real estate at the conclusion of the auction, with twenty percent (20%) of the total contract price to be paid in good-faith, non-refundable money on the day of the auction. Escrow to be held at the office of James W. Whan, Attorney at Law, LLC, 104 N. Buchanan St., Maryville, Mo. Closing will be held within 30 days, on or before December 20, 2013, at which time possession will be given subject to farm rental agreement for the 2013 season. All announcements made sale day take precedence over printed material, written or oral statements. The information in this flyer is believed to be accurate, however, no liability for it's accuracy, errors or omissions is assumed. Buyers should verify the information to their satisfaction. Real Estate is being sold in "as is, where is" condition. Younger Auction Company, Y.A.C., LLC, and its representatives are acting as exclusive agents of the seller.

AUCTIONEER'S NOTE: This property has been in the family since 1865. It is an honor and privilege for Younger Auction Company to be commissioned to offer this century farm by public auction. This is a once in a lifetime opportunity to expand your farming operation, for this may never be offered again for sale. Make financial arrangements now, for these tracts may fall in your price range.
